The Starting Questions

Question 1: What are your weak points and strong points in group work?
Communication, decision-making, scheduling, conflict resolution, etc...

My weak points in group work is that I sometimes have trouble with effectively handling disagreements. I find that disagreements during a group project can be very frustrating.

My strong points in group work is that I effectively communicate my progress. I think it is important for everyone in the group to know what part of the project has been finished and what parts I might need help with.

Question 2: What do you hope to learn as a group during the project?
Communication skills, time-management, conflict-resolution skills.

During this project, I hope to learn more time-management skills. This is because I have two deadlines close to one another. Although this is stressful, it is a good opportunity to manage my time more efficiently.

Question 3: What do you think the assignment is asking you to do?

This assignment is asking me to take a deeper look into NLP, specifically how concepts like n-grams and lemmatisation work in practice. In this way, the assignment is an addition to the theory we have discussed during the lectures. In addition, the group aspect of this assignment poses an opportunity to develop group working skills and to learn from fellow students.

Question 4: What role do you hope to fulfill during the group project?
Leader, communicator, to keep the overview, note-taker, etc...

I hope to communicate well during this group project and to encourage my teammates to also communicate their progress and struggles throughout the project.

Question 5: Which part of the group assignment do you want to take the lead on?
Writing, researching, formatting, etc...

I would like to take the lead on writing, as I enjoy this process and I feel like I have a lot of experience in it.

Question 6: What are your goals for the project?
A high grade, a passing grade, to learn something new?

During this project I hope to understand the theory of the lectures a bit better. Some concepts that were discussed during the lecture are still a bit abstract to me, so I hope to apply them in practice and understand them better.

Question 7: What type of worker are you?
What are your individual strengths and weaknesses? Writing, researching, formatting, etc....

My strength is writing, as I have done a lot of written projects before so I have a lot of experience in it.
My weakness is that I have no prior experience with NLP, and thus I might struggle with concepts and the programming.

Question 8: What personal development goal do you have for this group project?
Become a better listener, take the lead more often, etc.....

I hope to gain some more time management skills and in addition I would like to be a better listeners in case a disagreement arises.

Question 9 (Optional): Give a description of your colour and how you identify with it

Q: what is your pet peeve?

In group projects, my pet peeve is when one group member does almost all of the work without communicating with the other members. This takes away an opportunity for the other members to learn from the project. In addition, it might pose a problem when contribution of work is tracked by the lecturer and counted as part of the grade.
